Hi

Thanks for asking about our role of Family Coach.

We are a dynamic and professional group of people working to create a fairer society through helping to improve the lives of people suffering homelessness and preventing people from becoming homeless and we're always looking forward to welcoming new, like-minded, people into our team.

Coaches support people to re-discover their own personal resources and to turn problem focussed thinking into creative unique solutions.

This is an important time for us as we meet the many challenges in the sector and in the whole of society and we are always looking for ways to stay ahead of the field and to achieve more for the people that rely on our services.

To find out more about our work, go to www.wearetrinity.org.uk

If you want an exciting challenge with an aspiring organisation then please write to us and tell us about yourself and why you want to work with us and please include your current CV.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes,

Steve Hedley
CEO

Why work for us?

Trinity is all about creating a fairer society through ending homelessness.

Homelessness in Britain is the result of treating housing as a commodity rather than a human right. It is rooted in privilege, wealth and power and policies that are inconsistent with human rights – neglecting or failing to respond adequately to the needs of the most disadvantaged in response to crises or economic developments. The response should be clear: we must commit to ending homelessness. This would, in fact, be in line with the global target to ensure adequate housing for all by 2030, which was committed to in the UN's sustainable development goals.

Why work for us...? Because we believe deeply in justice and we are a community of committed people who want to make our lives count in leaving a legacy that makes the world a better place. We have deeply held values and ethics and a high degree of self-directed performance. We have a positive coaching culture and we are solution focussed. There is a genuine and deeply felt commitment to continuous improvement and an aspirational approach to the future and we will not stop until everyone has a home...or at least a bed for the night.

Other reasons:

Great people

We currently have a team of 50+ gifted, friendly, funny people and in this year's staff survey half of them scored Trinity 8/10 as a place to work!

Flexible working

Some roles dictate that you've got to be somewhere at a certain time. Outside of this we value autonomy and work-life balance and we trust our people to manage their own time.

Pension

Good annual leave

Maternity and paternity leave

We look after you when you're sick or need time off

Self-directed learning

A day off for your birthday

And an all-expenses paid holiday (Okay... no free holiday)

"This is one of the happiest places I've ever worked. I look forward to coming in the mornings."

What we do

Trinity Homeless Projects (Trinity) is a registered Charity working in West London and Slough to end homelessness.

Hillingdon is one of London's largest Boroughs and we are the largest provider of Supported Accommodation in the Borough. We currently have over 50 properties housing over 300 people.

We employ full-time trained Coaches who offer between one and four hours coaching per resident per week depending on need and risk. Resident's needs and risks are reviewed by the Team every week. Coaches are trained NLP Practitioners and receive monthly individual and team coaching. We map our progress through a Strengths Chart that focuses on assets not deficits and this year our ex-resident survey showed that 86% of people that move on from our Supported Housing are still securely housed after 12 months, making Trinity a long-term solution to homelessness.

We have two large furniture recycling stores that deliver employment training and saves over 2,300 tons of CO2 every year and we provide training and education to over 150 businesses, schools and colleges in an effort to prevent homelessness and rough sleeping.

We run a Reconnection Service for people sleeping rough at Heathrow and our Day Service (SHOC) in Slough work with about 100 people every week.

We lease properties from the Private Rented Sector and create licensed HMOs. Private landlords like our offer; we pay market rates, provide 24 hour call out and we're good neighbours. We charge Enhanced Housing Benefit which is comparable with other providers but our rents are unaffordable once someone secures a job and we are at risk of constant Welfare Reform and it is essential that we create a supply of affordable housing, at LHA rate.

We have a strategy with mapped pathways that can provide a local system where no one need to suffer homelessness again.

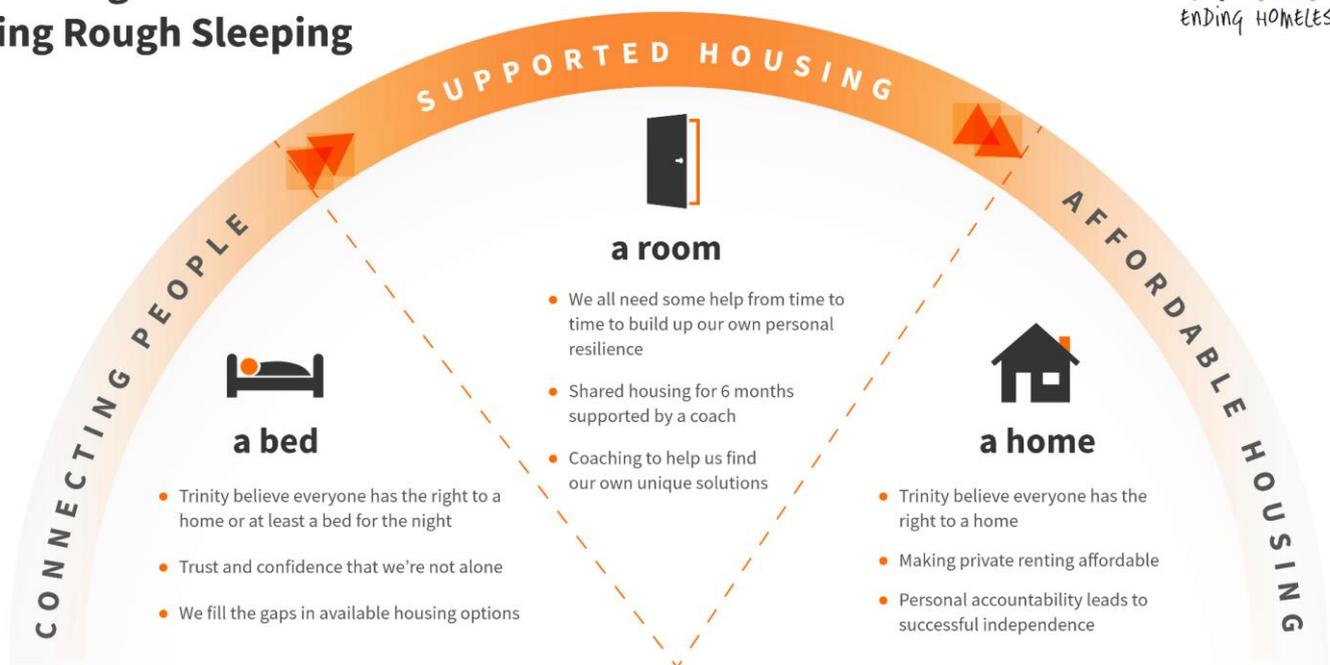

"Trinity is amazing, they have taught me how to be positive and how to stay strong and focussed on my life"

Our Theory of Change

Everyone has the right to a home...or at least a bed for the night

Increasing Life Expectancy
Preventing Homelessness
Ending Rough Sleeping

Life expectation in the UK currently stands at 80 years. If you are sleeping rough that almost halves to 43 years. Where we work the average time someone will have to sleep rough is 1.3 years and an analysis of the services currently being provided shows that the vast majority are designed to maintain people living on the streets rather than accessing housing.

We believe everyone has the right to a home or at least a bed for the night.

Our approach is to create a supply chain of services that ensures everyone where we work has access to a room and within as short amount a time as possible a home.

Family Coach

"If you have come here to 'help' me, you are wasting your time. But if your struggle for liberation is bound up with mine, then maybe we can work together."

Lilla Watson 1985

The purpose of the Coach

The coaching we provide empowers residents to successfully manage their tenancy through engaging people in such a way that they can develop resourceful strategies. Person-centred planning is offered to all our residents who are encouraged to create a personalised support plan. The experience we have gained in working with people with complex needs has shown us that the most effective form of support is one where staff build a good relationship with the people we work with and the direction of travel is clear. This comes through regular, quality communication and identifying an agreed pathway that someone wants to take and is faithfully supported to achieve the outcome they want.

The role of a Coach

Our services combine the provision of; a home, great people to help and a focus on employment through individually tailored support plans to achieve a single outcome for every resident; successful independence for life. We work to strengthen the relationships in the lives of our residents and seek to add value in everything that we do and give support and learning at all times. We work flexibly and informally but at all times draw from a strong foundation of measurable outcomes and indicators of success.

Our approach to support is solution focused and includes complimentary interventions; Motivational Interviewing, Appreciative Enquiry, Brief Therapy and Neuro Linguistic Programming. We fundamentally believe people have the solutions to their own problems. This presupposition means that we avoid being the 'expert', instead we coach residents to discover their own unique solutions.

A person's right to choose is a central value of our support and our response to a resident regarding support and housing management is informed by the identification of a resident's own awareness of their current circumstances. Implicit in this, is a sort of 'golden rule', that a Coaches' ongoing personal development and life processes are linked with his or her work. This gives us the ability to model resourceful states and ensures equity as we share our journey together.

The Coach uses the Strengths Chart which focuses specifically on each support pathway and supports residents in making changes by providing them with a map of the journey. It works by moving someone from a 'stuck' state to a state of 'self-reliance.' Coaches facilitate the combining of these pathways through building a close working relationship, not only with the residents, but with partner agencies.

Coaches are responsible for providing support to around 30 residents or 10 families depending on their individual support needs. Trinity's support follows a natural rhythm, rather than formal proceedings, this breaks down barriers and is conducive to a balanced lifestyle, including; good morning calls, shared breakfasts and evening meals, routine domestic chores and structured and unstructured activities throughout the day focusing on independent living skills, training, employment, physical and mental health and fun. It is through this daily positive connection with clients that we are able to provide space and time for people to address the reasons that caused them to experience homelessness and to demonstrate an alternative lifestyle that is a proven long-term solution to homelessness.

Family Coach

We live in a global village and Trinity has a track record of housing and coaching victims of war and persecution around the world; Ethiopia, Somalia, Eritria, DRC, Yemen, Iran, Iraq...and more recently Afghanistan and now Ukraine.

Our Family Coach's provide support to assist families to adaptation to life in the UK. As well as emotional support we help with; employment, benefits, housing, health and education, amongst other things.

Are you the right person?

Naturally, the success of our approach depends on having the highest quality staff with the right personal qualities to be the difference that makes the difference in our resident's lives.

Few occupations place such a premium on a staff member's human qualities, personal development processes and self-awareness as is required for a good Coach. In this job, it really matters what kind of person you are. In a job that impacts lives it is essentially about facilitating processes to assist people to reclaim, restore, enhance and actualise their innate human potential. Complex issues are often involved such as family breakdown, family trauma and violence, sexual abuse, problematic drug and alcohol use, domestic violence, unemployment, poverty, developmental delays and many other difficult life passages such as divorce, separation, or rejection. Many of these issues lead people to experience homelessness and to seek the services of supported accommodation.

The exacting vocation of a Coach demands a complex 'juggling act' of professional skills, as well as excellent personal qualities. It requires knowledge of human behaviour and relations and therapeutic interventions and practice; reliability; loyalty, honesty, enthusiasm, creative thinking; flexibility; responsiveness; a genuinely positive approach; ability to negotiate conflict and crises; and endurance and good stress management, so as to be fairly relaxed amid chaotic and often emotionally demanding environments. As if this were not enough, the personal qualities needed are very stringent and tend to be based on hard won self-knowledge and awareness gained through life experience, learning from difficulties and personal development efforts, perhaps rather more than theoretical knowledge. The foundation for this job is a caring disposition, coupled with the skills to follow through in a practical way which empowers people rather than doing it for them. For the right person this can be an exciting, rewarding, inspiring, enriching and satisfying career which is also very socially beneficial. Genuine friendliness in Team Members is essential and while there are necessary boundaries in this work, these should be applied with sensitivity and discretion.

Absolute sincerity is requisite. After all, people weary of 'the system' are often experts at detecting hypocrisy. The role of a Coach has no place for; patronising attitudes and talk, self-righteousness, quick fixes, babysitting, proselytising and doing good.

It is important for a Coach be a good listener with the ability to reflect back key emerging themes to the resident, provide space for a resident to discover solutions and to exercise restraint when tempted to jump in too quickly with possible solutions. It is remarkable just how often, when encouraged, people can generate their own unique and creative responses or solutions to problems. This says a lot about the nature of people and also a lot about the nature of problems.

We work to a number of presuppositions including; each person is unique, there is no failure only feedback, we respect each person's perception is true for them, behind every behaviour is a positive intention, we have all the resources we will ever need, there is a solution to every problem, mind and body are one system and everyone makes the best choice available to them at the time.

Open mindedness, a ready acceptance of people 'where they are at' and a democratic world view according equality to all people, is the approach which really assists the processes at hand. Coaches will have their likes and dislikes, but must maintain a positive regard for everyone. You will also meet residents you like, admire and respect for their courage, insight, grasp on profound truths and their often hard-won wisdom. The people you see growing and evolving, partly under your influence, will give you energy to deal with the more mundane or frustrating aspects of the work.

The role of Coach requires relevant training and qualification in the areas of housing, welfare advice, social work, mental health, health care, drug and alcohol dependency and due to the variety of sites to be visited daily it is essential that Coaches are owner drivers.

Finally, on an idealistic but also attainable note, Coaches who possess, develop and creatively employ the qualities outlined above can effectively and enduringly assist clients to find many ways of creating pathways within themselves, illuminated by a growing awareness and self-knowledge and helping residents discover their own, bountiful, inner resources.

Thanks for taking to time to absorb all this and if this is for you, I really look forward to hearing from you.

My very warmest regards,

Steve Hedley
